

On January 21st 2012, at the age of 56, Jeroen Soer died after he got an heart attack.

Jeroen came on board the MV Mi Amigo in August 1979 and stayed only a few days as his impression of the old Lady was zero. From that point on he started recording his programmes in his own studio, using the name Jeroen Woelwater.

He had a long career in radio, including the public broadcasters KRO, VARA, TROS and he was one of the founders of Radio Tien, which later was renamed into Radio 10 Gold.

During the years he was also director of the regional radio and television station RTV West as well as public broadcaster VARA. During the last years he was involved in Radio Flandria in Belgium as well as Radio Efteling in the Netherlands as well as running his own media advice office.
